When you lose everything in life, a new beginning is marked by that phase.
It's the time when you can only gain something as you've got nothing
to lose.

Maybe that's why a moonless night is called a 'new moon' night.

-Argade Tejas Navnath

Last night my heart ached
For someone unknown to me
Her pain, I felt
Through her words, a bit
Only through her words

Yet it hurt me
Beyond my heart's strength

Such was the pain
Crippling, Burning,
Soul crushing

My heart ached
For a pain that wasn't mine
Such was the pain
Crushing my will
What must be her plight
To receive that ache
To hold that ache
I couldn't imagine
For it wasn't my pain

Yet my heart ached
Such was that pain
That never was mine.

I sit looking out the window.
The sun has just risen,
the shadows are long,
I pause just for a moment,
a brief moment
Looking away from the demands of the oncoming day.
So many needs, wants, desires...
they can not be filled by one person alone.
The sun slowly rises.
I blink at its glow,
basking in its warmth.
Just for a moment,
a brief moment,
then I turn away from the window.
I turn back to my day.
Moving forward,
little step,
by little step.

This... this is...
This is what resilience looks like

Your love is no longer
for me

You said I was everything,
That is shining bright in your heart,
You promised that I will be the only one,
To be with for eternity till the end of time.

You gripped my hand,
you accepted my sincere love for you,
you decorated my life perfectly,
You gave me happiness.

You left me abruptly,
Leaving alone without you,
What happened to your promise,
To stay loyal to me?
